OF SCHOOL LIFE

We, the editors of the 1946 Blackhawk Annual, feel that a yearbook needs no formal pattern, that the portrayal of a year's activities in a vivacious, active, exhuberant high school is sufficient "theme". Therefore we have tried to represent here the life that is typical of high school days — the days you will want to remember in years to come as "those good old days at D. H. S." Recorded in this book are all the phases of activity in which sometimes industrious, sometimes carefree, high school youths engage: trips with the debate squad; heated discussions in civics classes; dates to Homecoming, Spinisters Spree, the Military Ball, and the Victory Ball; training for baseball, football or track; collecting props, practicing lines, and building sets for the plays; marching at football games in the band; selling tickets for the Minstrel Show, Hi-de-Hi and public speaking programs; campaigning for Boys' State; going to Student Council meetings; being elected president of Spanish Club; singing in a'Cappella; doing the wrong set of problems for trig; being tested for tuberculosis; working on an English assignment in the library; staying late after school to fold Blackhawk newspapers; looking over yearbook pictures; receiving a diploma at commencement.

Thus, with the activities of this past year as our central idea, we have tried to portray life at D. H. S. as you experience it. The theme is YOU, and to you we dedicate this 1946 Blackhawk Yearbook.

ADMINIS

The most important event during the year 1945-1946 was the winning of the war and the cessation of hostilities. But peace brings with it many difficult questions which must be solved. Full production and keeping international peace are illustrative of the problems which must be solved if our war sacrifices are not to have been made in vain. Boys and girls who continue to graduate are equipping themselves to assist in the solution of these and other problems. In addition many of the students in the Davenport High School are getting valuable work experience on a part-time job while continuing in school. Most of our graduates are equipping themselves for some vocation as a homemaker, a stenographer, a printer, a future college student, or a machinist. The community has provided generously in buildings and equipment; we are proud to know that you make good use of the opportunities.

P. B. Jacobson.

TRATION

Principal A. I. Naumann

February 25, 1946

To the Class of 1946:

It seems almost impossible to believe that you have so quickly completed your three years of senior high school work and that you are now standing upon the threshold ready for your exit as a graduate. In your high school days, you have felt the impact of a terrible war and you have experienced the joy which has come to many of your homes and to the nation because the shooting has ceased. Treaties have been signed but much remains to be done to win the peace. You are to have a large share in bringing this to pass to the end that you and your posterity may live happily in your homes, your country, and with all men and nations of the world.

As a class you have contributed your share to school activities and especially to the demands of your community and your country.

It is my hope that each of you may achieve your fondest dreams for success.

"I want to find in the daily task
A durable sense of worthwhile work,
No noted place in the sun I ask,
Just the strength and will never to shirk."

Sincerely your friend,

A. I. Naumann

Mr. A. I. Naumann, Principal; Miss Ernestine Martin, office clerk; Miss Birdine Steffen, attendance clerk; and Mrs. Norma Post, principal's secretary.

COUNSELING

Checking three-year schedules are members of the counseling staff: Miss Adelaide Balluff, Harvey Voris, Miss Lucille Burianek, Miss Eva Funk, and Miss Mabel Johnstone.

With the thought of seeking advice, help, or encouragement, students unhesitatingly seek the aid of those who are experts in such matters — our counselors.

Even though the counselors liberally extend their assistance, they have another important assignment — to issue absence slips, whether it be for tardiness, truancy, work, or sickness. They meet the demands of all students.

In the counseling office a file containing scholastic achievements, activities, and the character of counselees is maintained. Catalogues from all the major colleges of the United States enable a student to intelligently discuss a college when its representative is brought to him by the counseling office.

Striving to maintain the best principals of life — such is the work of the counseling office.

Miss Leona L. Soehren, director of counseling.

GUIDANCE AND ACTIVITIES

Right: Leonard Calvert and Miss Pauline Cotter, vocational guidance instructors.

To assist 2,200 students in finding their place in the world, to acquaint them with the 29,000 occupations, and to analyze particular occupations is the task of the vocational guidance department.

Too, Mr. Calvert, former director of the department who has now become principal of Sudlow Intermediate and Miss Cotter, have in previous years established a placement service. Mr. Kenyon has now taken over the directorship of the department.

In extra-curricular activities, too, there must be guidance. The task of planning sports schedules, promoting school spirit, and supervising pep auds is carried on by Mr. Goss, director of sports activities.

Members of Miss Cotter's vocational guidance class demonstrate office equipment used in secreterial vocations.

Leslie C. Goss, director of extra-curricular activities.

Members of Miss McDonald's English II class look at models of guillotines in connection with their study of "A Tale of Two Cities."

ENGLISH

Right: English instructors: seated, Frank L. Madden, Miss Mabel Johnstone, and Mrs. Madge Faoro; standing, Miss Jean McDonald, Miss Evelyn Callendar, and Miss Hortense Finch.

Left: Tim Bawden, Dorothy Dietz, Lucille Tuerk, Georgia Powell, and Bob Bryan read an article to other members of Miss West's American Literature class.

English instructors: Miss Helen Thomas, Miss Josephine Mirfield, Miss Margaret West, and Miss Muriel Weeks.

English and literature — the basic skills upon which we build. Yes, in a world where free speech is a principle of daily living, one must take the opportunities to learn such things as sentence structure, grammar rules, and the works of classical and modern writers. Not only do the rules of grammar and the stirring tales of authors remain with us, but all the ideas of the class room are indented upon our minds.

Many and varied are the courses offered. Besides the one year of required basic English, there are English III, American Literature, a study of American writers from the time Virginia was planted until the present, and English literature, a study of English writers from the time of the Anglo-Saxons to recent years. Newly added to the English curriculum are the courses of recent literature and creative writing.

Aside from the regular English courses, an outstanding feature is the journalism course. With a rush on "deadline" night and the hard work of the newcomers, the department has published the Blackhawk newspaper and yearbook for twenty-eight years.

Barbara Melby reports on an essay in Miss Mirfield's English Literature Class.

MATH

The intricacies of math have probably caused more furrowed brows and the burning of more midnight oil than any other subject. Those courses which bring about such perplexity are: algebra, advanced algebra, trigonometry, plane and solid geometry, and refresher mathematics.

High school math has laid the cornerstone of many an imposing career. Engineers, doctors, chemists, physicists, astronomers, pilots, navigators, all require a thorough knowledge of this subject.

The math instructors at any high school, our own included, must sometimes turn in relief to the steadfast strength of theorems and plain, everyday figures — unchanging truths in a changing world.

HISTORY

Since December 7, 1941, events have had such a shattering impact on the world that it is difficult for us to realize that historical events prior to these years are important.

Much credit must be given, therefore, to our instructors who have helped us to realize that we must look backward in order to understand the present and to chart a course for the future.

The study of social sciences aids us in setting a pattern for the coming world. American history covers the years from the settling of America to the aftermath of World War I. World History makes us aware of the part other civilizations play in our social developments.

Right: Jacqueline Hauschild reports to Mr. Ringstrom's contemporary affairs class as Chairman Duane Stiles looks on.

LANGUAGES

Through the language department the doors of four civilizations — the French, the German, the Roman, and the Spanish — are thrown open to us.

In overcoming the conjugations of verbs and the declensions of nouns, our four linguists, Miss Blackman, Miss Bates, Miss Eskelson, and Miss Anderson, teach us not only those grammar rules but also the customs, the habits, and beliefs of many other countries. Through such a department, the entire world is laid at our very feet.

Too, engineers, lawyers, doctors, and physicists of tomorrow's world will find their work in the language department a foundation for their future studies.

Therefore, the job of the language department is to assist those future workers and to help bring about the consolidation of a world linked together by communications and science and yet separated by various races that speak and live differently.

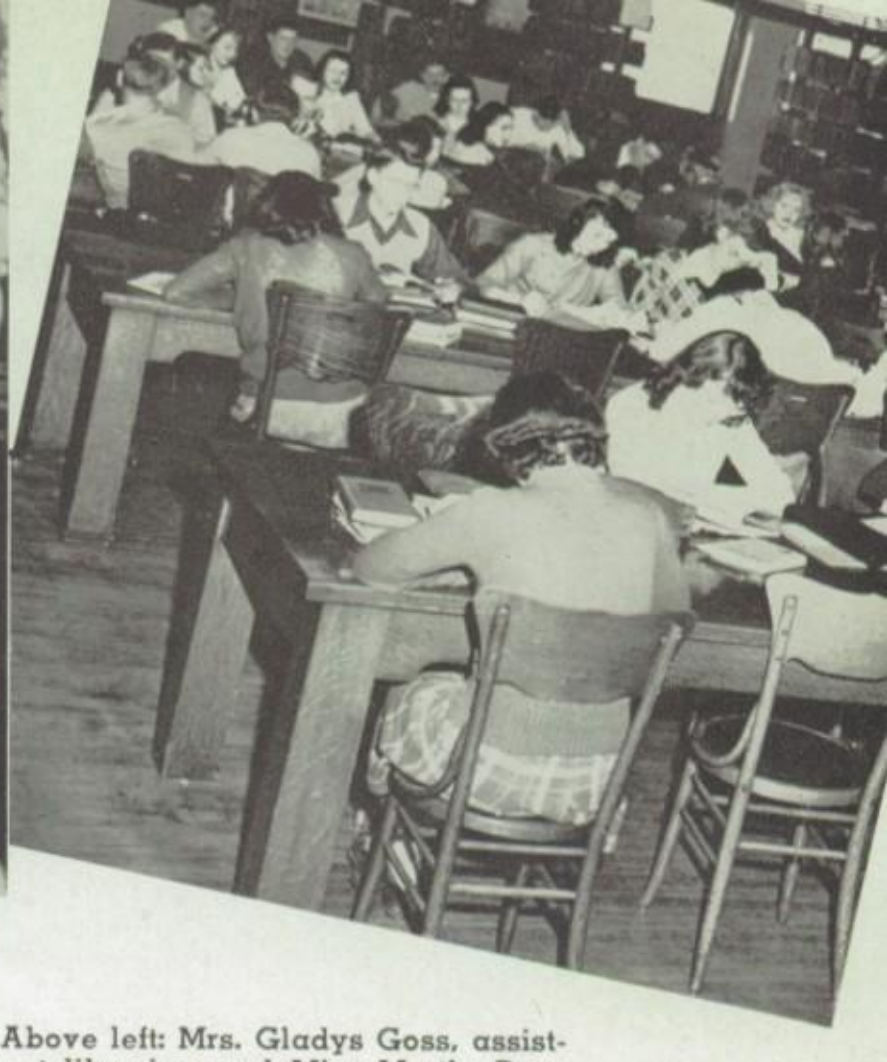
Front: Miss Dorothy Blackman, and Miss Minnie Eskelson. Back: Miss Florence Anderson and Miss Flossie Bates.



LIBRARY

Americans are proud that no citizen need grow up in ignorance. This pride may not be apparent to the casual observer watching the average student use his library in the pursuit of knowledge. Even the least imaginative seeker cannot fail to appreciate that whatever information we are looking for is here. Through combined efforts pamphlets, source books, biographies, essays, fiction, encyclopedias — all the aids to education —are made available to us.

A mechanical drawing class works on their plates in Mr. Waffle's class.

Those who expect to become metal workers, carpenters, architects, printers, or engineers will find the industrial arts building an interesting place.

Mechanical drawing, pattern making, wood turning, and printing are some of the classes offered by this department.

Printing the school newspaper, tickets, programs, and posters for school activities are the duties of the print shop.

One of the main projects of the machine shop is the construction of the C-clamp. In making this clamp the student uses every operation encountered by a machinist.

The purpose of the internal combustion and welding classes is to teach the care and maintenance of a car. Arc and acetilene welding is also done in this department.

Students who complete the mechanical drawing course may go into industry, to engineering college, or use their knowledge for their own satisfaction.

In machine drawing, students learn how to make a working drawing of a machine through the use of standard tables.

Architectural drawing stresses blue print reading and eventually the student is able to make a complete plan of a house.

"Be seeing you! Have to go put a zipper in my dress." This is a typical remark heard around the home economics building.

The building resembles a large home. Here girls learn how to make a home more than a frame structure. Among the offerings are courses in: home management, dressmaking, household sewing, cooking, and dietetics.

Young girls who leave the building at the end of the year are prepared to keep house for themselves or to take further training in the specialized fields.

Members of Miss Downing's household sewing class work on a weaving loom.

Members of Miss Haller's dietetics class give a food demonstration.

HEALTH

Miss Wilna Nash gives an eye examination to Grace Damos.

There are always times when a student has his ups and times when he has his downs. If the level of feeling ever becomes too low a student may seek the aid and comfort of the health department.

Upon entrance to D. H. S. students are required to take a physical examination.

Too, at the beginning of the fall term, a tuberculin test is offered to new enrollees.

There are always such minor incidents as nose bleeds, cut fingers, or skinned knees, for the nurse, Miss Wilna Nash, to treat.

Dr. Carl Matthey, school physician, and Dr. William Teegen, school dentist, ably help out in the "miniature hospital".

Several boys' squads play basketball.

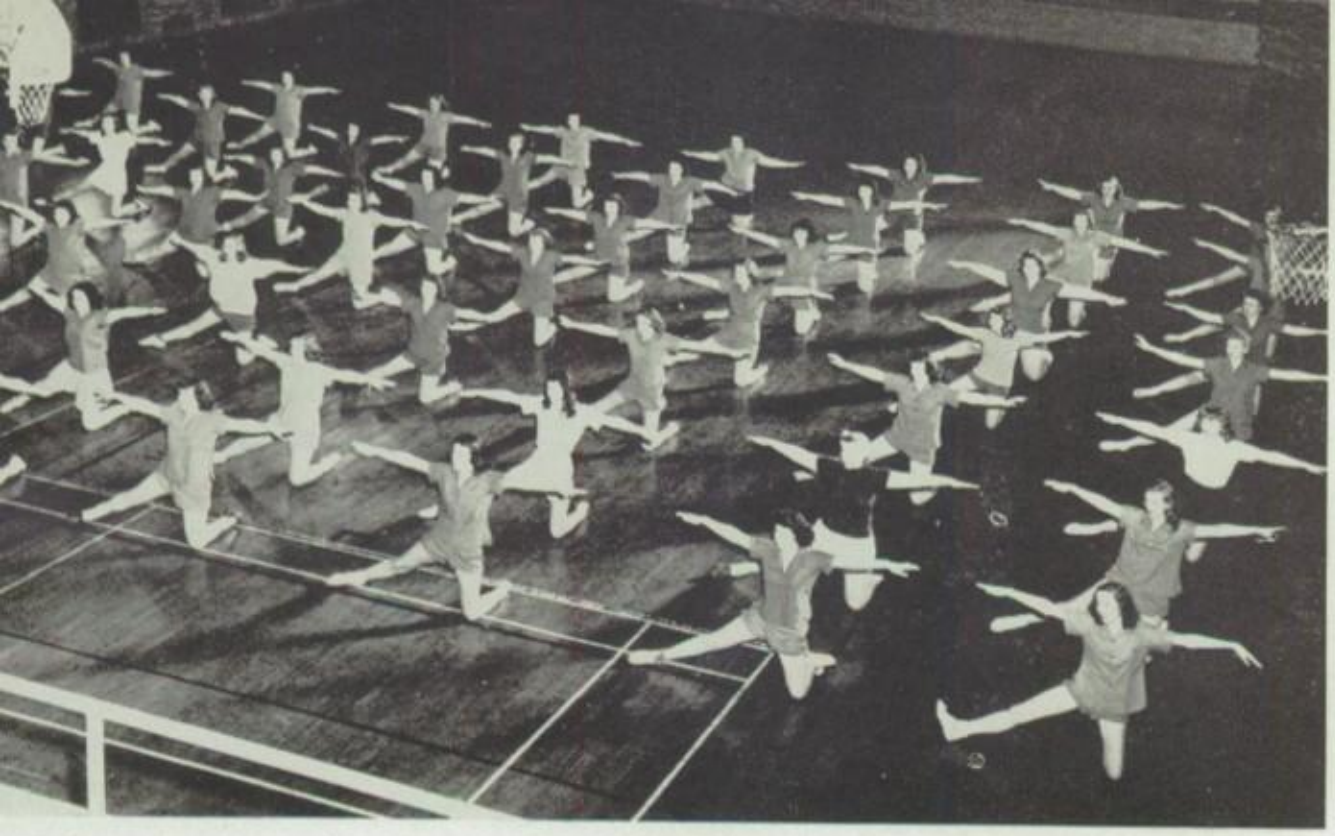
PHYSICAL

Through a door marked "Boys" at the end of the tunnel go some 500 boys twice a week.

The work done by the boys on the parallel bars is outstanding. These exercises are muscle building and help build stamina in young men. So outstanding is the work done by these athletes that they put on exhibitions between halves of the basketball games.

Volleyball, basketball, tumbling, baseball and track are some of the other sports included in the gym program.

The boys go through a vigorous training program in which they try to reach the rank of Commando. The rank is reached by passing a program consisting of ten points. Points are earned for ten separate tests which include scaling a ten foot wall, head and hand springs, a twenty-foot rope climb, a pull-over on a bar, running the quarter mile in seventy seconds, and the almost impossible feat of performing the kip on the high bar.



Slimming their waists are the members of a twelfth grade gym class.

EDUCATION

Going down through the tunnel and turning to the right twice a week (four times for some) is on the schedule for most girls. That is where you'll find a door marked "Girls" and a place of action.

Each gym class is divided into squads. Girls line up for calisthenics which frequently include everything from bicycling to push-ups.

Classes are further divided into larger groups that rotate every six weeks. While one group plays volleyball, another is playing badminton, and another is learning such dances as the Virginia Reel and two-step. The rotation of groups gives all an equal opportunity at the sports offered.

Efficiency tests are given during the basketball, volleyball, baseball, and other sports seasons in order to formulate class teams to carry on intramurals. The "champs" are given medals by the G.A.A. As soon as one season is over, practice immediately begins for another sport.

Sports offered in girls gym during the year include: volleyball, soccer, hockey, basketball, speedball, ping-pong, and badminton. The dancing program offers folk dancing and social dancing.

The girls intramural program is carried on three time a week after school. This program offers volleyball during the fall, basketball in the winter, and baseball in the spring.

ART

The fundamentals of art, design, painting, commercial art, sculptoring, and metalcraft — all are courses that are offered to the aspiring young artist.

Posters, paintings, metal works, and murals are in evidence anywhere one chooses to look around D. H. S.

It has been the custom of this department to supply needy organizations and charities with such items as menu and Christmas cards, lap boards, posters and cartoons. This year practically all the goods went to the Red Cross and Schick Hospital.

MUSIC

Right: Music instructors: B. J. Schaefer, Kent Gannett, Tom Collins, and F. E. Mortiboy.

There is music in the air of D.H.S. We are justly proud of the accomplishments of the vocal and the instrumental music departments.

Under the direction of Mr. Gannett, vocal classes including beginning and advanced chorus, a'Cappella, and Girls Glee Club meet several times through-out the week. Music appreciation and harmony courses are offered to those who wish to study the finer points.

Mr. Mortiboy, on the other hand, directs the band and orchestra. By the perserverance of both he and the ensemble, he has produced numerous fine concerts. Probably his most trying task was that of presenting the Minstrel Show.

Although the music department has many difficulties to overcome, it produces the finest in programs.

Geraldine Collier, Roscoe Hourigan, Don Edwards, and Dean Helble check results of an experiment by using the microscope in Mr. Money's college preparatory chemical class.

SCIENCE

Students of today will be the scientists of tomorrow! And the scientists of tomorrow must learn of the discoveries of the past and present day. It is the task of the science department to teach these people the technical side of such discoveries.

Tomorrow's doctors, nurses, chemists, and other scientists are offered the course of college preparatory chemistry with college preparatory physics as a prerequisite. Those who do not have the required math or do not wish to go into the subject so deeply may choose the courses in applied physics or in nurses' chemistry.

Entirely different from any of the subjects listed above but still an important side of science are the "ologies". The names of biology, zoology, and physiology to many suggest classes that are dull and uninteresting, but when a student comes to dissect frogs, to remove appendages from the grasshopper, to scale fish, and to touch slippery snakes, he changes his mind. He also learns the construction of the human body.

Right: Gerald Claussen and Geraldine Williamson point to a diagram of a fish as other members of Miss Johns' biology class look on.

Left: Science instructors, seated: Miss M. Rae Johns, Hugh Woodruffe, Miss Gertha Stark; standing, Milton Brenneman, Harold Money, J. M. Hitchings, L. C. Goss, and Harvey Voris.

Members of Mr. Brenneman's physics class work with laboratory equipment. They are, reading clockwise: Walter McCoy, George Brase, Pat Grey, Judy Sue James, Chuck Hanssen, and Richard Hoeksema.

In the commercial workshop are Miss Balluff, Frances Carp, Marilyn Korn, Janice Park, and Mr. Ringstrom.

Commercial instructors: Clem Bridge, Miss Della Mae Taylor, and Miss Lola Weber.

COMMERCIAL

The complexities of the modern business world demand workers with specialized knowledge. Our commercial department offers an abundance of courses to the student seeking to arm himself with such training before venturing forth into business.

Included are courses in office machinery, salesmanship, and commercial law as well as the more familiar typing, bookkeeping, and accountancy courses.

In addition to the standard commercial classes, a system has been devised in connection with the retail selling course whereby students can spend half a day in school and the other half working at one of the jobs they have studied. By this means they benefit through actual experience on the job.

Joyce Henzen works at a local retail store in connection with the retail training course.

Commercial instructors, seated: Wallace Evans, Miss Adelaide Balluff, and Michael Dardis; standing, Miss Theo Schmid, Miss Mildred Blair, and Miss Lois Hillemeyer.

Jim Atkinson recites before Mr. Keiber's public speaking class.

SPEECH

Cues, tournaments, debates, curtain calls —all the familiar words of the speech department — in public speaking, in dramatics, and in the regular speech classes. These courses train students to speak clearly, meaningfully, and easily.

During the school year Mr. Keiber's public speaking groups enter various contests within the state and with groups from the neighboring states. The fields open in such contests are: debate, extemporaneous speaking, declamatory, and oratory.

As student actors appear they are given the opportunity to study the fundamentals of acting, makeup, history of the stage, and stagecraft. Makeup classes are given an exciting and big job when they apply the grease paint and finishing touches for those in the Minstrel Show. Further experience is gained when they apply makeup for the casts of the various plays presented throughout the year.

R. O. T. C.

Capt. F. A. Nolan, Harold Wiggers, Roland Lancaster and Charles Thodt

The R.O.T.C. department played an important part in this year's school activities. The regiment contained nearly five hundred cadets throughout the year.

The instructing staff were as follows: Professor of Military Science and Tactics, Captain F. A. Nolan; First Lieutenant J. Y. Wallace; Tech. Sergeant D. C. Wood; Staff Sergeant L. A. Francomb; and Sergeant H. L. Meyers.

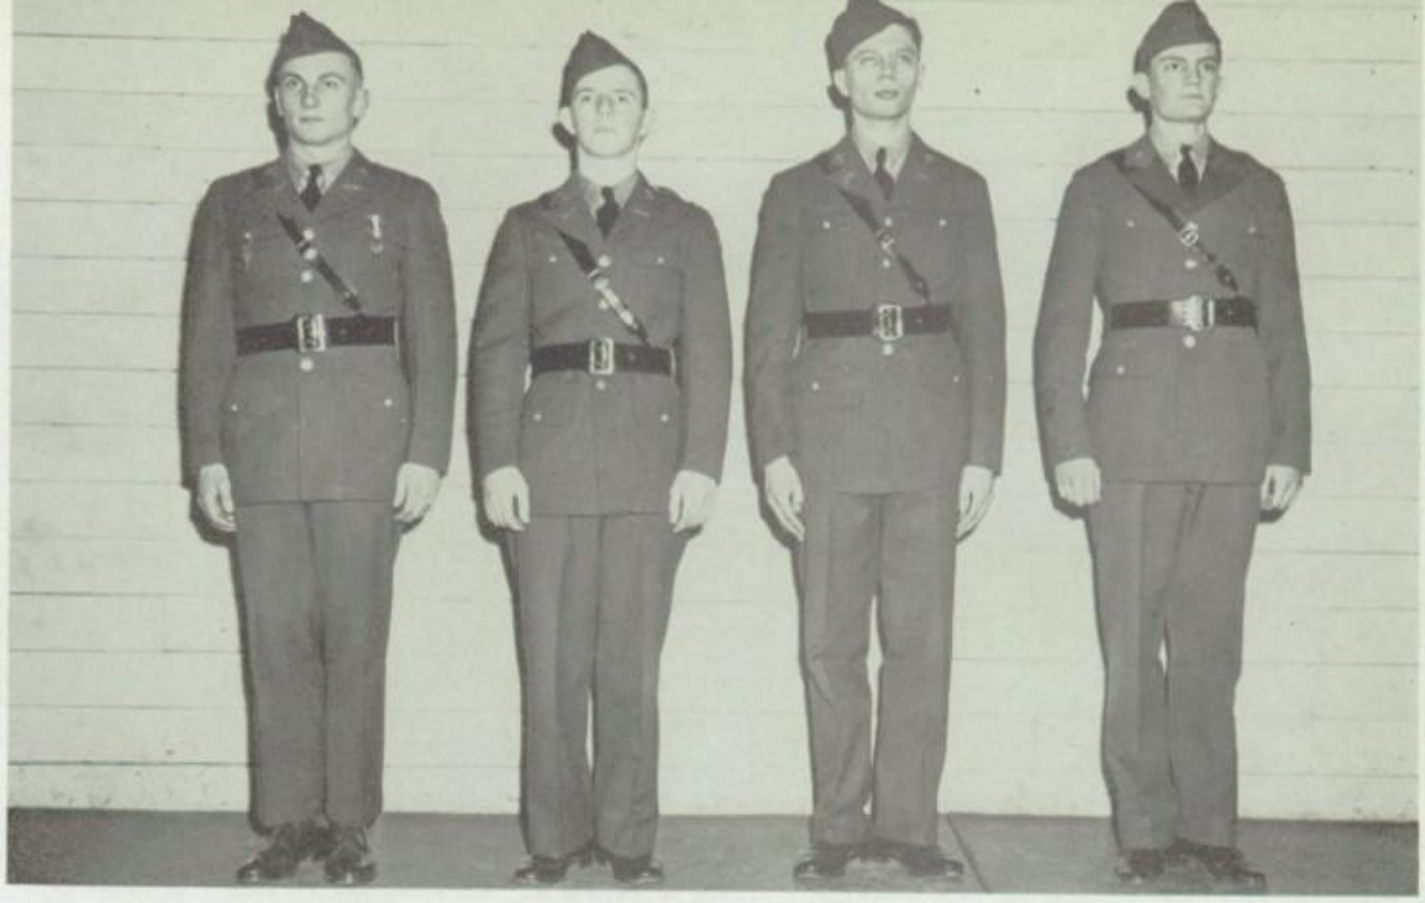
The company commanders were: Captains Robert Keller, Robert Beckman, Merle Prinz, Richard Schneden, Everett Christiansen, and Robert Hourigan.

The technical classes included such subjects as: combat technique, range firing, first aid, sanitation, and map reading.



Spring regimental officers, Bob Concannon, Bill Bredfeldt, Everett Christiansen, and Robert Schricker.

HOMECOMING

Results of the Homecoming election found Pat Hartman reigning as Queen with her attendants, Sally Burnett, Eileen Nagel, Colleen Lemley, and Marjorie Winn. Opening the festivities was the walking parade, the first since before the war.

The Empire Room of the Hotel Blackhawk served as the banquet hall where Bill Christiansen, Hi-Y president, acted as toastmaster.

At the athletic field the honored five, escorted by the Hi-Y officers, walked through an honor guard formed by the band for the crowning of the Queen by Mayor Kroppach. The royal party then viewed the game with Clinton from the royal box.

Climaxing the celebration was the informal dance held in the gymnasium where her Majesty was presented with the Homecoming football.

The entire affair was under the direction of the Hi-Y Club. The attendants were escorted by Frank Thoensen, vice-president; Jim Smith, secretary; Jim Soladay, treasurer; and Don Nebergall, chaplain.

FOOTBALL

Bill Youngberg sweeps wide around end in the Franklin game.

Duplicating their 1944 grid season, the Red and Blue 1945 football team completed the season with seven wins and two losses, finishing in fourth place in the Mississippi Valley conference, second berth in the Quad City race, and Championship rank in the City League.

The two losses came at the hands of the two top notch teams, falling 7-6 against Rock Island and 12-7 with Iowa City. Yet, the Imps accomplished a feat that no other Iowa team has done for two seasons when they marred a seventeen game winning streak of Clinton by upsetting the River Kings 6-0 on the local turf. The Clinton victory kept clean the Blue Devil's ten year record of Homecoming victories.

Coach Jesse E. Day, who completed his twenty-third and last season as head football coach, saw his '45 squad total 194 points against their opponents 37 and average 21.5 points per game while 4.11 could only be averaged by their opponents throughout the nine game schedule.

Joe Paulsen rounds the Franklin end, touchdown bound.

An entirely new opponent faced the Imps at the inauguration of the season when an inexperienced Chicago South Shore team invaded the Brady Street field and took a 46-0 walloping from the Demons.

Coach Wally Schwank brought his fighting Iowa City crew to the outskirted gridiron and dished out plenty of trouble for the locals as the invading Little Hawks triumphed over Davenport for the first time in thirteen attempts on the Demon field in the Imps' initial defeat of the year, 12-7.

The Demons met their second and last defeat of the year, 7-6, at the hands of Rock Island. Local fans got their money's worth in the following tilt when Clinton invaded the Brady Street field and fell to a 6-0 Red and Blue victory. This set the Demons in the fourth spot to finish the Mississippi Valley contests.

Eileen Nagel, Honorary Cadet Colonel, Pat Hartman and Lois McCord, Honorary Lieutenant Colonels at the dance with their respective escorts, Bob Concannon, Bill Bredfeldt, and Bill Christiansen.

Foremost in the R.O.T.C. activities of the year and one of the most spectacular events of the fall semester, the Military Ball was held December 19, in honor of the R.O.T.C. officers and their dates. The Honorary Cadet Colonel, Eileen Nagel, was escorted by Colonel Robert Concannon, and the Lieutenant Colonels, Pat Hartman and Lois McCord, by Bill Bredfeldt and Bill Christiansen.

Preceding the dance a banquet for the officers and their dates was held at the Club Mo-Kan where the Honorary Cadet Colonel and the Lieutenant Colonels were presented with identification bracelets as tokens of the R.O.T.C. recognition of their ranks. Captain Roy Keller was chairman of the banquet committee.

The saber arch custom and the grand march led by the cadet colonel highlighted the evening's dancing, with Hal Wiese's orchestra furnishing the music.

VICTORY BALL

A new feature of this year's activities, the Victory Dance, held at the climax of the War Bond and Stamp drive this fall, was reigned over by "King" Roger Hedberg and "Queen" Arlene Ortiz, elected from the nominees of the six highest homeroom bond buyers.

The official crowning of the King and Queen at the dance, December 13, was followed by the Grand March led by the royal couple. The remainder of the evening's dancing to the music of the D.H.S. Swingsters led by Jerry Shipton was presided over by the King and Queen. Other candidates for the honors were: King; Martin Wilson, William Blanche, and Dick Oline, and Queen; Shirley Matthews, Carmelita Schroeder, Martha LeBuhn, Lois McCord, and Janet Miller.

Although failing to win either the Mississippi Valley or Quad-City conference titles, the 1945-46 Blue Devil basketeers successfully completed a tough 20 game schedule with a record of fifteen victories against five defeats.

During the season the Imps rolled up 775 points to 617 for their opponents. The Demons polled their highest total of the season against the St. Ambrose Knights, hitting for 57 points, while the lowest mark was 20 tallies against Clinton.

Gaining revenge for the previous year's losses, the Imps twice downed Muscatine, 25-14 in the season's opener, and 36-25 in a return tussle.

Opening the home season the Demons downed Franklin 43-32, and followed this with a topheavy 43-22 victory over Iowa City. Entering Quad-City competition, the Moonmen dropped East Moline 54-49.

Clinton ended the Imp win streak with a lopsided 51-35 victory but the Davenporters bounced back to top Moline 37-33.

The Demons overwhelmed St. Ambrose and Dubuque before Roosevelt toppled the Blue Devils with a 27-23 win. A 34-31 overtime victory over Rock Island put the Red and Blue back in the win column.

Winding up the regular schedule, the Moonmen ran rough shod over East Moline, St. Ambrose, Muscatine, and Dubuque, while dropping games to Clinton, Rock Island, and Moline. In a post season tilt the Impsters edged out the Alumni 40-38.

The Blue Devil sophomores were plagued by bad luck throughout the season, despite winning the Mississippi Valley conference, dropping five games by two points or less in compiling a twelve and seven record.

East Moline was the only Quad-City loop foe to fall before the yearlings, 44-22, while the Bridgemen won eight of their nine Valley conference games, dropping a close battle with Clinton 36-35.

WRESTLING

Coming through a tough eleven meet schedule with seven wins against four defeats, the Imp matmen topped off the regular season by capturing their third consecutive district crown and gaining two championships and fifth place in the State finals.

The Demon grapplers suffered their only setbacks at the hands of West Waterloo's state champions, and Rock Island's strong squad, dropping two decisions to each team. The West Waterloo aggregation topped the Imps at Clinton and then repeated their win, downing the Demons 27-13 on the Waterloo mats. The Blue Devils were edged out again by the Rock Islander's engagements.

The Imps broke into the win column as they stunned Maquoketa. Proviso High School, Illinois state champs from 1935 to 1945, fell before the Demons 22-14 in the season's third meet.

Coaches Atkin's and Johnson's charges took the measure of Clinton twice, and of Vinton and Maquoketa once in a return bout before entering state championship competition.

Hi-De-Hi "canteen", opened November 20 and 21, was presided over by Leon Hilfman as master of ceremonies and his assistant, Bill Christiansen.

The program, in two parts, presented the a'Cappella choir singing three numbers, and a popular song division featuring such soloists as Loren Sloane, Mary Alice Day, Bob Behm, Shirley Matthews, Marjorie Winn, Edna Kepka, Gene Allbee, Bob Bashaw, and Dave Hennes.

The event was under the combined direction of the entire cast with Shirley Matthews as general chairman and Bob Jones as student director.

The entire Hi-De-Hi cast looks on as Jack Kuehl and Tom Cosgrove imitate the Ink Spots.

JANUARY GRADS

January class officers: Roger Hedberg, Barbara Willett, Dean Jenison, Shirley Burnett, and Bob Hedberg.

June Polson, Bill Christiansen, Lois McCord, Dean Jenison, Arleen Plambeck, Bob Hedberg, Ella Zachritz, and Roger Hedberg lead the grand march at the Senior Prom.

January 1946 marked the first post war graduation since June, 1941. Even though the war was technically over, traces of it were felt when six boys received their diplomas in absentia.

Bill Christiansen and June Polson with their committee consisting of Otis Dickerson, Betty Ann Denniston, and Bob Bashaw planned the first Senior Prom held after gas rationing was abandoned.

Two days after the Prom the Reverend Frederick G. Codd, of the Calvary Baptist Church, delivered the baccalaureate at his church. His topic was: "When Life is Worth the Living."

"Sweater Swing" the senior party held in the gym was under the direction of Janice Parke and Dick Schneden and the committee members Fanny Carp, Ann Goettsch, Bob Lange, and Lois Goetz.

Many students began college careers before they received their high school diplomas. Others worked and postponed college until fall.

Although the class was first in several items, it was last in one respect. This class is the last mid-year graduating class in the Davenport school system.

With this culmination of firsts and lasts behind them 137 graduates depart for jobs, military service, and college.

TRACK

After a disheartening start in which the Blue Devil trackmen lost the Mississippi Valley Indoor meet by one-half point to Clinton, head Coach Jesse E. Day's charges sprinted thru a successful season.

A shortage of long distance runners and concentrated strength proved one of the Davenport machine's weak points but superlative performances by various Demon thinly-clads made up the difference.

Co-captain Joe Paulsen got off on the right foot by establishing a new Valley shot put mark with a heave of 49 feet, 11 5/8 inches. Tom Priester, Jim Hayek, and co-captain Bob Concannon gave the Red and Blue 1-2-3 strength in the spirts as well as combining in the short relay distances.

BASEBALL

Another victorious season was racked up by this year's baseball squad as they came thru 12 tough games in winning form.

With numerous veterans on the squad roster, Coach Doug Atkins had many top-flight performers to choose from. Mainstay of the mound staff was Captain Don Hotop, who gave many stellar twirling performances.

Holding down the catching duties for his second year was Bob Baker, senior. Returning infield starter from last year was shortstop Don Schmitt, a junior.

Patrolling the outfield were Bob Paulsen, Don Edwards, and Dick Hoecksema, all members of the starting line-up of the previous year.

TENNIS

The D.H.S. tennis team had a fall season well above average as the netsters captured four of five matches. The only defeat was suffered when they bowed to Moline with a close score.

The team, captained by Bud Lusk, was coached by Forrest Sissel. The other squad members for the fall semester were: Bob Beckmann, Burke Dailey, Bob Mingus, Bob Hammes and Bill Bredfeldt.

With the scores well evened up, the Davenport girls' tennis team, coached by Miss Deone Gibson, girl's gym instructor, started the fall season off with a bang. With only the Quad-city teams to worry about, the girls' blue team came out with a smashing spring season.

April fair days attract to the fairways. And so golf coach Russell Bickford once again took his best foursomes out to tour the links in the traditional Davenport winning fashion.

Divot-digging relations were established with two new foes, Peoria Central and Bloomfield, during the spring term. The other members of the Quad-city loop, Rock Island, Moline, and East Moline engaged the Imps in the traditional Velie cup rivalry, while Iowa City, Franklin of Cedar Rapids, and Dubuque furnished Mississippi Valley opposition. St. Ambrose challenged the Demons for the city title before Davenport closed out the season in the state tournament.

Top Blue Devil foursome consisted of returning monogram winners Jim Fahrner, Chuck Hanssen, Bob Dittmer, and Jack Lambrecht. All proved worthy of defending local laurels garnered when "Bickford's Boys" captured runner-up honors in the 1944 state tournament.

GOLF

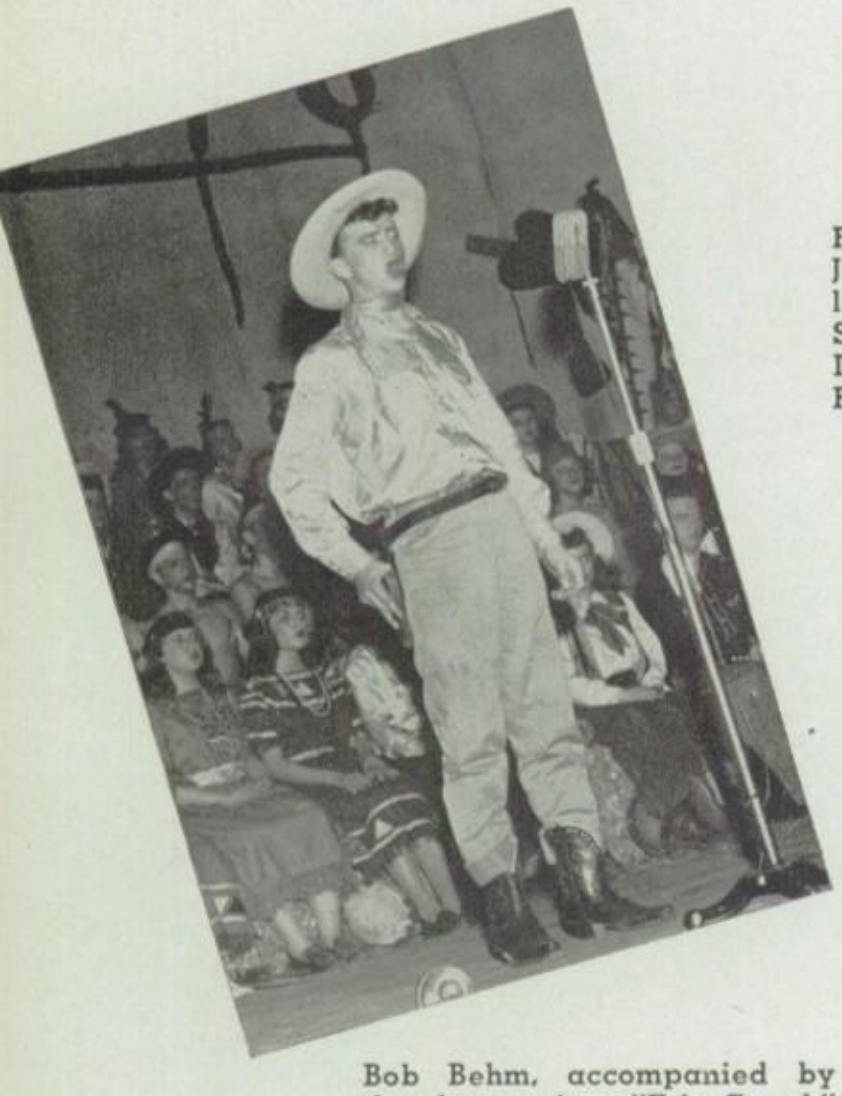
MINSTREL SHOW



Bob Behm, accompanied by the chorus, sings "Erie Canal."

Right: The boys' quartet, Jack McLatchie, Otis Kelley, Tom Priester, Loren Sloane, accompanied by Dale Boege, sing "The Last Round-up".

"Oklahoma, O K L A H O M A, Yi!" sang the entire company as the curtain rose on the 1946 Jubilee Minstrel Show sponsored by the Band and Orchestra Parents' Club.

The show, presenting a western theme, made $2,500 net which will buy new uniforms for the band and orchestra and help defray tour expenses.

Among the outstanding numbers were "Erie Canal" sung by Bob Behm, "Red River Valley", a duet by Bernice Kath and Albert Lewis, Marjorie Winn's "Dagger Dance", "Give Me My Boots and Saddle" sung by Bruce Neilson, and "Along the Navajo Trail" sung by Loren Sloane.

One of the democratic projects D.H.S. annually undertakes is the election of senior class officers.

This year the returns found Dave Thoensen elected president and Jerry Shipton, vice-president. The position of class secretary was filled by Fred Jacobi.

Eileen Nagel was chosen as girls' treasurer and Wayne Micheel became boys' treasurer.

Aside from the election many senior activities were carried out. June 7 found D.H.S. couples dancing at the Coliseum.

Baccalaureate followed on June 9.

The last good time for the senior class was held at their "final fling" at Credit Island on June 11.

Then, with a serious note, Mr. Charles Gilkey delivered the address at the Commencement exercises on June 12.

Feb. 24-25

Spring officers of Student Council: Arleen Plambeck, secretary; Dave Thoensen, president; and Bruce Neilson, vice-president, talk things over with Mr. Goss.

Looking over Red Cross figures are sponsors, Miss Schmic and Mr. Potter and officers: Lois Winborn, president Jim Soladay, vice-president; and Joan Kell, secretary

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is the representative force of the student body. It is their job to make suggestions that will benefit the student body and the school. These ideas are put to a committee which irons out difficulties and formulates plans. The proposition is then presented to Mr. Naumann for his approval. If it is a much requested bill it can be taken to Dr. Jacobsen, superintendent, for final action.

Elected as president for the fall semester was Bill Teegen, with vice-president, Bruce Neilson, and secretary, Arleen Plambeck.

JR. RED CROSS

The Junior Red Cross members made articles through the year that were distributed to convalescent hospitals. Among the articles included in their projects were slippers, utility bags, and wash clothes.

During the fall term elected officers were: Roger Hedberg, president; and Alice Lutz, secretary. The Red Cross drive was conducted and a total of $148.13 collected.

The main project for the second term was filling boxes for hospitals. Members also made caps, napkins, posters, nut cups, and table favors for all holidays.

Members of the Student Council listen to a few facts given by their advisor, Mr. Goss.

Early morning worshippers are, Row 1: Frances Wachlin, Audrey Echols, Eugene Orr, Jerry Anderson, Don Hall, Carolyn Hedberg, and Aliene Waters. Row 2: Claire Thompson, Marjorie Warner, Sylvia Wendler, Camilla Dannacher, Shirley Burnett, Clarice Livingston, Doris Robinson and Mary Ann Robinson.

FELLOWSHIP

A new group made its debut this year. This organization, meeting at 8:00 a. m. every Wednesday, is the Early Morning Fellowship group.

The Bible verse "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth" Eccl. 12:1 is carried out with hymn singing, scripture reading, and special speakers at the morning meetings. Speakers who gave inspiration to the students included Mrs. Pierce, The Reverend George A. Magnuson of the Grand Avenue Baptist Church, and several servicemen.

INTRAMURALS

Intramural sports for girls are of two varieties, inter-class tournaments and after school activities. Inter-class tournaments sponsored by the G.A.A. are held in volleyball, basketball, baseball, ping-pong, and badminton. Medals are awarded to winning team members.

The after school activities consist of volleyball in the fall, basketball in the winter, and baseball in the spring.

Thirty to forty girls take part in each of these activities which are held after school on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings.

Volleyball inter-class champions are: Row 1: Pat Hartman, Lois Rathjen, Betty Duffy, and Marilyn Korn. Row 2: Gerry Collier, Barb Rullon, Camilla Dannacher, Jean Plambeck, Lois McCord, and Betty Lou Juergensen.

Finding bowling to their interest are these G.A.A. members: Barbara Melby, Lois Rathjen, Marilyn Tebbe, Grace Rhoads, Edith Wailand, Marilyn Korn, Fanny Carp, Jean Reinhard, Betty Gray, Helen Schnoor, Margaret Huntington, and Betty Ann Denniston.

The band lines up during a practice session at the football field.

BAND AND

Mr. Mortiboy, director of instrumental music frowns at a sour note.

A mixed clarinet quartet practices for a music contest: Vernon Buddin, bass clarinet; Claire McIntosh, alto clarinet; Joan Faulhaber, B-flat clarinet; and Betty Lou Salato, B-flat clarinet.

String quartet members: Leon Hilfman, violin; Keith Peterson, violin; Don Papenbrock, cello; and Jean Albrecht, viola.

ORCHESTRA

"No! That's all wrong, start back at k-k for kitty," shouts Mr. Mortiboy as the orchestra rehearses Haydn's "Clock Symphony" for the Spring Festival in Dubuque, their biggest event of the year. In collaboration with three other state high schools, Burlington, Clinton, and Dubuque, our own music department showed its aptitude as a leader. Other selections chosen by the band and orchestra were: "Yankee Doodle" by Gould, "Iphegenia In Aulis" by Gluck, and "Russian Sailors Dance" by Gliere.

The state contest at Grinnell, April 25-27, was also on their traveling list which meant hours and hours of practice and short intervals of leisure. But the time was well spent. Both the orchestra and band rated highest honors with the horn quartet, brass quartet, trombone quartet, and woodwind quintet groups receiving firsts in the instrumental division, and seven students gaining solists top ratings.

Another important event of the band and orchestra this year was the sixth annual Jubilee Ministrel Show, which netted over $2,500.

The band performed in the interests of the community when they gave the public the "Dear Joe" Concert.

The band, besides traveling to the above mentioned contest, will journey to Chicago in late August to enter the contest at WGN studio. In the evening, with approximately twenty-five bands from the mid-western states, they will perform en masse at Soldier's Field.

Also, the band played a prominent part in the outdoor ceremony in May, commemorating Iowa's Centennial.

Although both band and orchestra members admit that belonging to these organizations call for many extra morning and evening rehearsals, the fun and experience they derive from them more than compensate for the disadvantages!

VOCAL MUSIC

Jack McLatchie, Otis Kelley, Tom Priester, and Loren Sloane, members of Boys' Quartet.

Music lover or not, everyone agrees that music hath charms. For those who wish to actively participate in producing such music, or merely wish to study it for better appreciation and understanding, there are outstanding opportunities in D.H.S.

Performances of the vocal department throughout the year were varied. A major event was the presentation of a portion of Handel's "Messiah," featuring 100 voices. Hi-De-Hi, presented November 21-22, was a semi-classical and popular music program.

Group participation was plentiful when various vocalists joined the band and orchestra in the annual Minstrel Show.

Music plays an essential part in our lives just as it has from the earliest centuries. Without it the everyday humdrum of life would not be nearly as durable.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

Like the ol' Mississippi the public speaking department rolled along to another successful year in forensic competition under Mr. Keiber's guidance. The first tournament of the season, Davenport girls' declamation, found Lucille Foley on top in oratory. Roy Keller captured first place in the boys' invitational which was also held here. The teams annexed second places in Waterloo's annual contest. In the Iowa Nine Conference, the debate team posted a second, a scant point behind Muscatine. The boys' declamation team registered a second place while the girls' team maintained Davenport's winning ways with first honors. The latter tournament placed Davenport on top of the conference with Burlington.

In the Coe College tournament the debate team won superior ratings and Wayne Brooks led the field of original oratory with the only 100 per cent. Across the river the entire debate squad registered fourth in Augustana's tournament. In Moline's invitational the debate teams resumed their stride by annexing first places in A and B divisions.

It was a gala ninth year for the National Forensic League chapter as Norma Cope, Virginia Day, Roy Keller, Tom Hammel, John Ingwersen, Alan Jansen, Jim Ketleson, Dennis Martin, Richard Ratliff, Virgil Voss, Harold Wiggers, and Donna Martin became new members.

DRAM

As peace arrived with atomic reverberations, so did the dramatics department give forth with some theatrical explosions.

The initial pop-off was heard on November 29-30, with three high-powered, one-act bombs for ammunition. These were "Lima Beans," a verse fantasy by Alfred Kreymborg; "Happy Journey," a modernistic experiment by Thornton Wilder; and "Hands Across the Sea," a witty, sophisticated, English comedy by Noel Coward.

TICS

Next explosive to assault the ear drums was the three-act comedy, "Out of the Frying Pan" by Francis Swann. Sizzling with wit and bubbling with hilarity, this frying pan cooked up as tasty a dish of comedy fare as ever tickled the palates of Davenport audiences.

Throughout the year the dramatic classes aided in supplying additional plays and programs for high school and civic organizations, giving make-up demonstrations, and doing technical work for the high school Minstrel Show and the one-act play festival.

BLACKHAWK

Beginning with the football extra in September, the Blackhawk started another season of news gathering for the benefit and pleasure of its student readers.

In critical survey the Spring '45 Blackhawk received an All-American rating from the National Scholastic Press Association. At the Moline Press Conference in the fall of 1945, the Blackhawk received professional rating for front page lay-out and feature material. The paper also received the Medalist award in a judging contest sponsored by the Columbia Press Association.

NEWSPAPER

With the aid of the print shop and Mr. Sissel and outside assistance from linotypists, photographers, and engravers, seventeen issues plus two extras were put out.

The journalism department received a new advisor when Miss Muriel Weeks joined the faculty.

Members of the staff for the fall semester were: editor-in-chief, Barbara Hinrichsen; assistant editor, Joan Taylor; feature editor, Shirley Elman; club editor, Joan Taylor; co-sports editors, Bob Hedberg and Chuck Colgan; and business manager, Janice Parke.

Deadline night in room 29.

THE '46

"Please—does anybody know what happened to the dummy?" These words evoke wild laughter in room 28, for after hours of work everyone is beginning to feel like "the dummy." The occasion? Deadline night for another section of the Blackhawk yearbook.

The hands of the clock continue their jerky way around the hours and still the staff works on. It's not unusual to find them, weak from hunger, still valiantly typing, drawing, and identifying pictures by the hundred until 5 p. m. These otherwise normal students somehow let themselves get tricked into working on the Blackhawk staff, and when deadline comes they even have to spend their Saturdays in room 28.

Nothing can stand in the way of Blackhawk work because printers and engravers, like time and tide, wait for no man. Staff members can take a bow for all the work they did. June Polson, Elaine Fidlar, Phyllis Miebach, and Lynn Schroeder measured layouts and created cartoon characters. Em Phillips and Rosanne McKenzie chased down senior pictures and pasted senior panels.

YEARBOOK

Dick Balzer, Wayne Micheel, Bob Hedberg, Chuck Colgan, Bill Bredfeldt, and Don Simmons covered the sports. Marcia Goldman, Barbara Ney, and Rosevelyn Lusk launched the subscription drive and kept the finances in order. Joan Kell and Mary Norkus put out the club section. Char Bates, Vera Haberer, Kay Hargrove, Pat Nighswander, and Mary Alice Walker ground out the thousands of words of copy. Miss Weeks was always on hand to check on things and correct copy. Last but not least, Mr. Sissel served as trouble-shooter for all the hard jobs. Whenever the book's progress was halted by a bottleneck, the by-word was "let Sis do it."

No one person has any idea of the total work done to put out the 120 pages of the '46 book.

Many hours of planning precede all the work. Pictures must be arranged, themes worked out, and background material for copy gathered. Then come tedious hours of measuring, cropping, reducing, and enlarging pictures for page layouts by the art staff. The writing staff writes, types, corrects, and re-writes copy to fit into the finished page layouts. Underlines for the pictures must be written and hundreds of names checked for spelling.

But when April came and the book had safely found its way into the hands of the printer, engraver, and binder, the staff remembered the fun they'd had in room 28. They looked with pride at the book they helped make a reality and decided it hadn't been so bad after all.

Center: Rosanne MacKenzie and Emily Phillips, class editors, measure pages for senior pictures.

CLUB

The curtain has again rung down on another interesting and successful year for the D.H.S. Dramatics Club. During the year, monthly meetings were held, and talented members participated in skits, talks, plays and make-up demonstrations.

The club lost one of its sponsors when Mrs. Mae Elma Tornquist resigned from her position as speech and English instructor. However, her place was aptly filled by Mrs. Julia Krieder who did a fine job and was ably supported by Miss Opal Munger.

Bouquets must also go to the officers who, for the fall term were: president, Jack Kuehl; vice-president, Sue Linihan; secretary, Barbara Fluhrer; and treasurer, Ed Claypool. Spring officers were: president, Sue Linihan; vice-president, Leon Hilfman; secretary, Barbara Fluhrer; and treasurer, Joan Taylor.

Many of the members are quite skilled as make-up artists, electricians or stage designers. The sets used for department plays were constructed by crews composed of members of the different dramatic classes.

A one act play entitled "Weinies on Wednesday" was staged before the club. The cast included Catherine Mandas, Jean Decker, Nancy Hall, Wayne Eppard, and Dave Berg.

Leon Hilfman gave his interpretation of Poe's "The Telltale Heart," at one meeting, and Tom Conover and Jean Decker also gave readings.

The high point of the year was the Dramatic Club banquet in May.

Who knows—someday members of this high school's dramatic club may see their names in lights.

This year the French Club, under the guidance of Miss Dorothy Blackman, celebrated its silver anniversary. The organization had its first meeting on April 11, 1921, and on April second of this year, a grand birthday party was held to commemorate the twenty-five years of the club's existence. At this special program Miss Priscilla White, a former member of French Club, related her experiences in France with the American Red Cross.

The fall semester saw Emily Phillips as president, with Shirley Mayer, vice-president; Jane Martin, secretary; and Phyllis Miebach, treasurer. Taking over the gavel for the spring semester was Louetta Petersburger. Assisting her, were vice-president, Phyllis Miebach; secretary, Janet Frank; and treasurer, Elaine Fidlar.

Le Cercle has started a collection of French records. One of the most prized contributions made was an album on the liberation of Paris. Some of these records were made while the city was still under the yoke of the Germans.

The members of the club promoted a drive to collect funds so that our school could sponsor a French child who was desolated by the war. The French club members of twenty-five years ago were also making plans to "adopt" an orphan of war. It makes an interesting parallel.

GERMAN CLUB

Deutscher Verein opened its fall semester by electing Fred Jacobi, president; Austin Healey, vice-president; Rosemarie Hess, secretary; and Robert Petersen, treasurer. Christmas was celebrated in the traditional manner around a lighted "tannenbaum". The program included the story of "Silent Night" and the singing of favorite Christmas songs. Christmas cookies with anise and spice completed the party in the best German fashion.

During the second semester Fred Jacobi again directed the activities. Nancy Hall was vice-president; Austin Healey, secretary; and Robert Petersen was again treasurer.

The customary picnic ended the year's activities.

HORIZON CLUB

The Horizon Club is the senior division of the Camp Fire Girls. The Simpatica Chapter became affiliated with the Davenport High School in September, 1945. The purpose of the club is to encourage girls to develop their individual talents to the fullest. Programs are centered around the Horizon Club insignia—three mountain peaks which stand for friendship, fine personality, and service to others.

Officers for the year were: president, Virginia Hansen; vice-president, Margaret Hoff; secretary, Lorna Collier; and treasurer, Marguerite Winckler.

Miss Anderson was the advisor.

G.A.A. Members—Jeannine Ahlgren, Jo Ann Ahrens, Lucille Allsbrow, Frances Alter, Mary Antonopolis, Delores Arnesen, Marian Asher, Alberta Bales, Daisy Bassett, Betty Bausch, Clella Berg, Marjanne Berger, Doris Berry, Mary Breault, Ellen Brimmer, Jean Brix, Betty Brown, Ruth Buhmann, Gloria Burch, Sally Burnett, Shirley Burnett, Fanny Carp, Dolores Carpenter, Betty Chadbeck, Dolores Christiansen, Elaine Claussen, Elizabeth Claussen, Goldie Clotfeller, Beverly Coffelt, Geraldine Collier, Alberta Collins, Connie Collins, Pat Compton, Mary Conklin, Edith Criswell, Betty Jean Crow, Virginia Day, Jean Decker, Betty Ann Denniston, Beverly Dietz, Dorothy Dietz, Lois Dietz, Voncille Dixon, Katherine Doty, Lois Drechsler, Dolores Duncan, Betty Lee Dyrland, Joyce Elmegreen, Inez Kathryn Ezell, Mildred Farley, Joan Faulhaber, Marilyn Finger, Lucille Fisher, Frances Fleagle, Ruth Fleischman, Margaret Foley, Lorraine Fries, Mary Jane Freund, Pat Fries, Joyce Frymire, Jeanette Felske, Jo Ann Gadient, Margarita Garnica, Floramae Gates, Betty Geiger, Jean Geiger, Carol Glass, Lois Golinghorst, Betty Gray, Carole Green, Shirley Gregg, Vera Haberer, Virginia Hackett, Jean Hamman, Lois Hammel, Marilyn Hardesty, Rita Hargreaves, Marilyn Harper, Jackie Hauschild, Doris Hebbeln, Pollyann Hitchcock, Margaret Hoff, Elizabeth Hoffman, Marge Holderness, Edith Hoskins, Lenore Hueckstedt, Margaret Huntington, Lorraine Ingalls, Marilyn Jobst, Barbara Johnson, Delores Jones, Betty Juergensen, Evelyn Kallenbach, Carolyn Kennedy, Suzanne Kleinhen, Gloria Knaack, Dorothy Knecht, Stella Koehler, Barbara Korn, Bette Korn, Marilyn Korn, Shirley Kruse, Barbara LaDage, Loretta Lange, Janice Larson, Betty Laschanzky, Martha LeBuhn, Colleen Lemley, Jeanne Lensch, Joyce Lingner, Esther Little, Marjorie Looney, Darlene Lupton, Jacque McCleary, Lois McCord, Amber McGuire, Rita McGuire.

G. A. A.

Vim, vigor, and vitality are fitting adjectives to describe G.A.A.'s "Amazons". The Girls Athletic Association has well over 150 members which makes it one of the largest clubs of D.H.S.

Beginning the year was a welcoming party at the Bowlmor for the sophomores. In November a skating party was given at the Prom. Also held was the Spinster Spree, an annual high school dance sponsored by the G.A.A.

During the spring months club officers spent a "Play Day" at Iowa City. Members went on bowling and roller skating parties. An interesting sidelight was the showing of sport films in April. In May a picnic at Duck Creek Park ended the activities for the year.

Girls who received 500 point letters this year were: Donna Zinger, Peggy Peel, Barbara Johnson, Marian Asher, Virginia Day, Audrae Witt, Jackie Hauschild, Edna Vanderbeck, Dorothy Stapp, Lucille Tuerk, Jeannine Ahlgren, Dolores Carpenter, Geraldine Collier, Lucille Fisher, Pat Fries, Evelyn Kallenbach, Barbara LaDage, Floramae Gates, Martha LeBuhn, Amber McGuire, Elaine Miller, Shirley Mohr, Betty Owens, Dolores Pauly, Betty Peterson, Jane Redden, Elinor Rohwedder, Geraldine Siefers, Lela Stevens, and Shirley Stoneking.

State pin winners of 1000 point holders were: Marilyn Korn, Betty Perry, JoAnn Ahrens, Dorothy Dietz, Margaret Huntington, Betty Laschanzky, Esther Little, and Marge Winn.

Highest honors went to Betty Ann Denniston and Helen Schnoor, who won three stripe letters for their 1750 points. These points were obtained for participation in various sports either inside or outside of school.

Spring officers elected were: president, Lois McCord, vice-president, Dorothy Dietz; secretary, Janie Redden; treasurer, Marge Winn; and news reporter, Floramae Gates.

Marian McMann, Joyce McQuillen, Dorothy Maag, Arlene Mangels, Donna Martin, Geleene Martin, Erna Martz, Nadine Meewes, Ann Meinert, Lois Meinert, Barbara Melby, Kathlyn Menn, Betty Lou Meyer, Dorothy Miller, Elaine Miller, Shirley Mohr, Vivian Moore, Mercedes Mumford, Catherine Murray, Beverly Nelson, Phyllis Nelson, Barbara Ney, Gwen Norton, Georgia Olsen, Beverly Orr, Barbara Ott, Betty Owens, Valeria Paper, Delores Pauly, Peggy Peel, Frances Peirce, Betty Perry, Marilyn Perry, Betty Peterson, Helen Petersen, Marge Pittsford, Geraldine Poell, Delores Puck, Betty Rasmussen, Lois Rathjen, Doris Rauch, Mardelle Reck, Jane Redden, Marilyn Reimers, Jean Reinhard, Norma Rhea, Grace Rhoads, Maurine Ridenour, Norma Ried, Jerry Riedesel, Helen Riese, Betty Roberts, Marilyn Roberts, Carol Rohm, Elinor Rohwedder, Jo Ann Ryan, Mary Jo Sanderson, Joan Schaeffer, Anna Marie Schebler, Eleanor Schoob, Marilyn Schmidt, Helen Schnoor, Betty Schultschik, Nancy Shamon, Eileen Sharrett, Lorraine Sharrett, Carllene Sheffler, Geraldine Siefers, Dorothy Siegel, Vera Simmons, Bonnie Smith, Lilyan Snider, Aldena Snyder, Delores Snyder, Betty Springer, Betty Stanley, Shirley Stark, Dorothy Stapp, Lila Stevens, Betty Stevenson, Shirley Stoltenberg, Shirley Stoneking, Romona Stoner, Betty Storms, Beryl Svendley, Sally Swartz, Ruth Swift, Doris Taylor, Janet Tenenbom, Patsy Thordsen, Jacqueline Timmerman, Lucille Tuerk, Edna Vanderbeck, Dolores Voss, Jean Waage, Edith Wailand, Marjorie Warner, Esther Watts, Laura Webb, Agnes Weber, Sylvia Wendler, Elayne Werthmann, Margaret Werthmann, Mary Werthmann, Geraldine Wesenberg, Lois Wessel, Eileen Wicks, Wilma Wilkinson, Betty Williams, Georgiann Williams, Fern Winckler, Mary Lou Wingate, Vera Mae Wingate, Marjorie Winn, Mildred Wiseman, Audrae Witt, Natalie Wittig, Hermina Wolters, Marilyn Wright, Georgia Wull, Mary Ann Yager, Donna Zinger.

"Clean living, clean speech, clean sports, and clean scholarship" are pledges made by Hi-Y boys. By fostering Christian ideals and brotherhood throughout the school and community, Hi-Y spreads good fellowship and cooperation.

First big event on Hi-Y's schedule was Homecoming. With the addition of a parade, it was a bigger success than ever, especially since the team came through with a victory over Clinton's "River Kings".

Hi-Y's basketball team clinched the Y League championship under the management of Jim Weldon and playing of Duane Grobman, Jim Smith, Roger Brown, Bill Dick, Glen Mattie, and Jack Lange.

A measure of the good times were the parties given. November 24, the boys joined Tri-Y in a dance at the YMCA. New Year's Eve Hi-Y boys and their friends saw the New Year in at a night club style party at the "Y".

At club meetings entertainment included talks by Mr. John Bailey from the museum about "Steamboating on the Mississippi" and Mr. Malcom Crew, North American YMCA representative and a native Chilean who also talked to the boys. In January six Tri-Y beauties educated the boys on "Up-to-date Dating".

The year was brought to a successful climax at the annual camp party on Memorial Day at Camp Abe Lincoln.

Bill Christiansen headed the organization during the fall term, with Frank Thoensen, vice-president; Jim Smith, secretary; Jim Soladay, treasurer; and Don Nebergall, chaplain.

Elected as president for the spring term was Jim Soladay. Vice-president was Thad Chamberlain; secretary, Roscoe Hourigan; treasurer, Jim Smith; and chaplain, Dick Voris.

President, Jim Soladay, presents past advisor, Mr. Leonard Calvert, with a placque in appreciation for his excellent service to the boys, while Mr. O. E. Johnson, the present advisor, looks on.

JANE ADDAMS CLUB

To carry on social welfare, the Jane Addams Club was organized in 1935. It was named in honor of the one who became known internationally as a great social welfare worker.

Among the outstanding projects carried out were the purchasing of Christmas gifts and their wrapping for veterans at Schick Hospital. Other important events were the December Christmas party, a visit to the Davenport Public Museum, a style show staged in April by the clothing classes, and a playlet on the advisability of wearing certain outfits.

Prominent speakers of the year were Mr. W. S. Rosing who talked on life in Italy, Miss Catherine Downing who spoke on gracious living and Miss Catherine Illian, 4-H club president of Iowa, who gave a summary of her trip to a 4-H conference at Chicago.

To climax the year's activities a picnic was held in May to bid farewell to the seniors.

Officers of the fall semester were: president, Rena Kovitz; vice-president, Arlene Swiedom; and secretary-treasurer, Vera Pollock. Spring semester officers were: president, Joyce Elmegreen; vice-president, Irma Stoltenberg; and secretary-treasurer, Helen Timm.

The activities of the club were carried out under the direction of Miss Cora Wilson.

LATIN CLUB

Venerunt, viderunt, vicerunt . . . which translated means—they came, they saw, they conquered. These words made famous by Julius Caesar, have become the by-words of the Latin Club.

Comitium Romanum was organized in 1933. The purpose of the club is two-fold. Not only does it strive to acquaint its members with ancient Rome, its language, culture, and customs, but it also endeavors to interest the students in modern Italy. To this end the club had as its speaker on March 12, James Christianson, a returned veteran and former student of this school, who discussed his experiences in the Italian theater of war.

Members of the Roman Assembly meet every second Tuesday under the supervision of Miss Minnie Eskelson and Miss Flossie Bates. Interesting programs are presented at each meeting and refreshments are served. Membership is open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who are taking Latin or who have studied it.

The regular Comitium Romanum pin is a miniature Roman lamp in gold with a "D" guard. Beginning in 1937, honor awards have been given to students in recognition of scholarship, interest, and participation in club activities. The awards are gold pins in the design of the Roman fasces.

Selected to take over the official duties of the club for the fall semester were: First Consul, Jim Conover; Second Consul, Margaret Huntington; Scriba, Grace Harter; and Quaestor, Joan Paulsen. So well did these officers fulfill their duties that the Consuls were re-elected. The Scriba was Nancy Rohlfs, and Donna Zinger was elected to serve as Quaestor.

NORMAL CLUB

Seventeen teachers of tomorrow are today's members of the Normal Club. Although the members are few, their activities are many and varied.

Two outdoor picnics were held; one in October to welcome the new students and one in June to bid farewell to the seniors. The April meeting featured a trip to the Museum. One of their most interesting and informative meetings was held when Mr. Harry Banze, county superintendent of rural schools, spoke on problems of present day teaching. A Christmas party was given in December.

A new unit was introduced this year. Various girls at each meeting presented games that could be played in school. They have found it to be quite satisfactory.

Fall officers elected were: president, Lois Drechsler; vice-president, Velma Keppy; secretary, Ruth Wheatcraft; treasurer, Marilyn Fahrenkrog; and publicity chairman, Elaine Ewoldt. Taking over the duties in spring were: Elaine Ewoldt, president; Margaret Pien, vice-president; Lois Drechsler, secretary; Ruth Wheatcraft, treasurer; Marilyn Schmidt, historian; and Marilyn Fahrenkrog, publicity chairman. All seven seniors have signed contracts for teaching positions next fall.

QUILL CLUB

Pen and pencil are their tools. Imagination is their food. That is a vivid description of one of the oldest clubs in D.H.S. In 1908 the Quill Club, then known as the Pierian Society, was organized with twenty-four charter members. Today forty members belong to this distinguished club.

Outstanding writers of the year were: Bob Mingus, who wrote an essay entitled "Why Are Girls That Way"; Naomi Miller and Floreine King, who wrote a number of original poems; and short story writers Lorraine Ingalls for "The Decision", Maybelle McCubbins for the "Wishing Buddha", and Charles Colgan for "Dark Waters". Betty Clapp's radio play, "The Challenge" was dramatized before Quill Club.

Sitting in the president's chair during the fall term was Pat O'Day with Dick Doolen as vice-president, Dick Barton as secretary, and Jim Atkinson as treasurer.

Spring officers were: Bob Mingus, president; Julia Burkard, vice-president; Louis Scott, secretary; and Dick Doolen, treasurer.

Special service recommendations went to Tom Koehler, Julia Burkard, and Mary Alice Walker.

The club's advisors were Miss Mabel Johnstone and Miss Helen Thomas.

CLUB

Firm believers in the Good Neighbor policy are these members of El Circulo Espanol. By learning to speak the language of our Latin American cousins and thereby understanding them better, they will endeavor to strengthen Pan American relations in the future.

Under the planning of program chairman, Sally Zoeckler, the programs were delightful and educational. There were musical solos by Pat Jacobs and several of the band members. Katherine Hargrove led a lengthy discussion on South American customs.

The observance of the Yuletide season was of special importance with carol singing in Spanish and participating in the other Mexican traditions. One of the most colorful activities occurred when one of the braver members broke the pinata. This is a large jar hung from the ceiling and filled with Christmas goodies. Someone is blindfolded and given a stick with which to break the jar.

On April 13 several members joined other Tri-City "Spaniards" at the Pan American Day banquet and dance at Andreen Hall, Augustana College.

Elected to govern Spanish Club for the year were: Virginia Benfer, president; Jim Conover, vice-president; Georgia Powell, secretary; and Myron Levetzow, treasurer. Miss Flossie Bates guided the club over any rough spots that occurred during the year.

Tri-Y—the word that suggests good times combined with education. Each month of the school year Tri-Y girls are doing something.

September found them welcoming new members in a bang-up western fashion at the Round-Up party.

With wartime restrictions on travel removed, Cabinet took advantage of the situation by first attending the Illowa Conference in Muscatine, October 13-14 and later both Cabinet and members journeyed to the district conference at Iowa City.

November 24 Hi-Y joined the girls in a date party at the YMCA.

The year's activities centered around a drive to revive the verse of the school song which was presented in its entirety to the student body at an aud in December.

January 23, Tri-Y held a mid-term date party at the YMCA.

A notable addition to the club was an electric sign with the symbols of the Girl Reserves on it.

March 13 found Cabinet at a chili supper "cooked up" by the club advisor, Mrs. Gladys Maher. Cabinet meetings from then on took the form of supper meetings.

April was Tri-Y's most eventful month. Included were the traditional Holy Week Services, April 15 through 18 and a series of after dinner forums on "Boy and Girl Relationships".

In June the final curtain was drawn on a grand banquet. Here, officers for next fall were installed in a candle-light setting.

Officers for the year were: president, Lois McCord; vice-president, Kay Green; secretary, Charlotte Bates; and treasurer, Jane Martin. Charlotte was also elected as the district recorder.

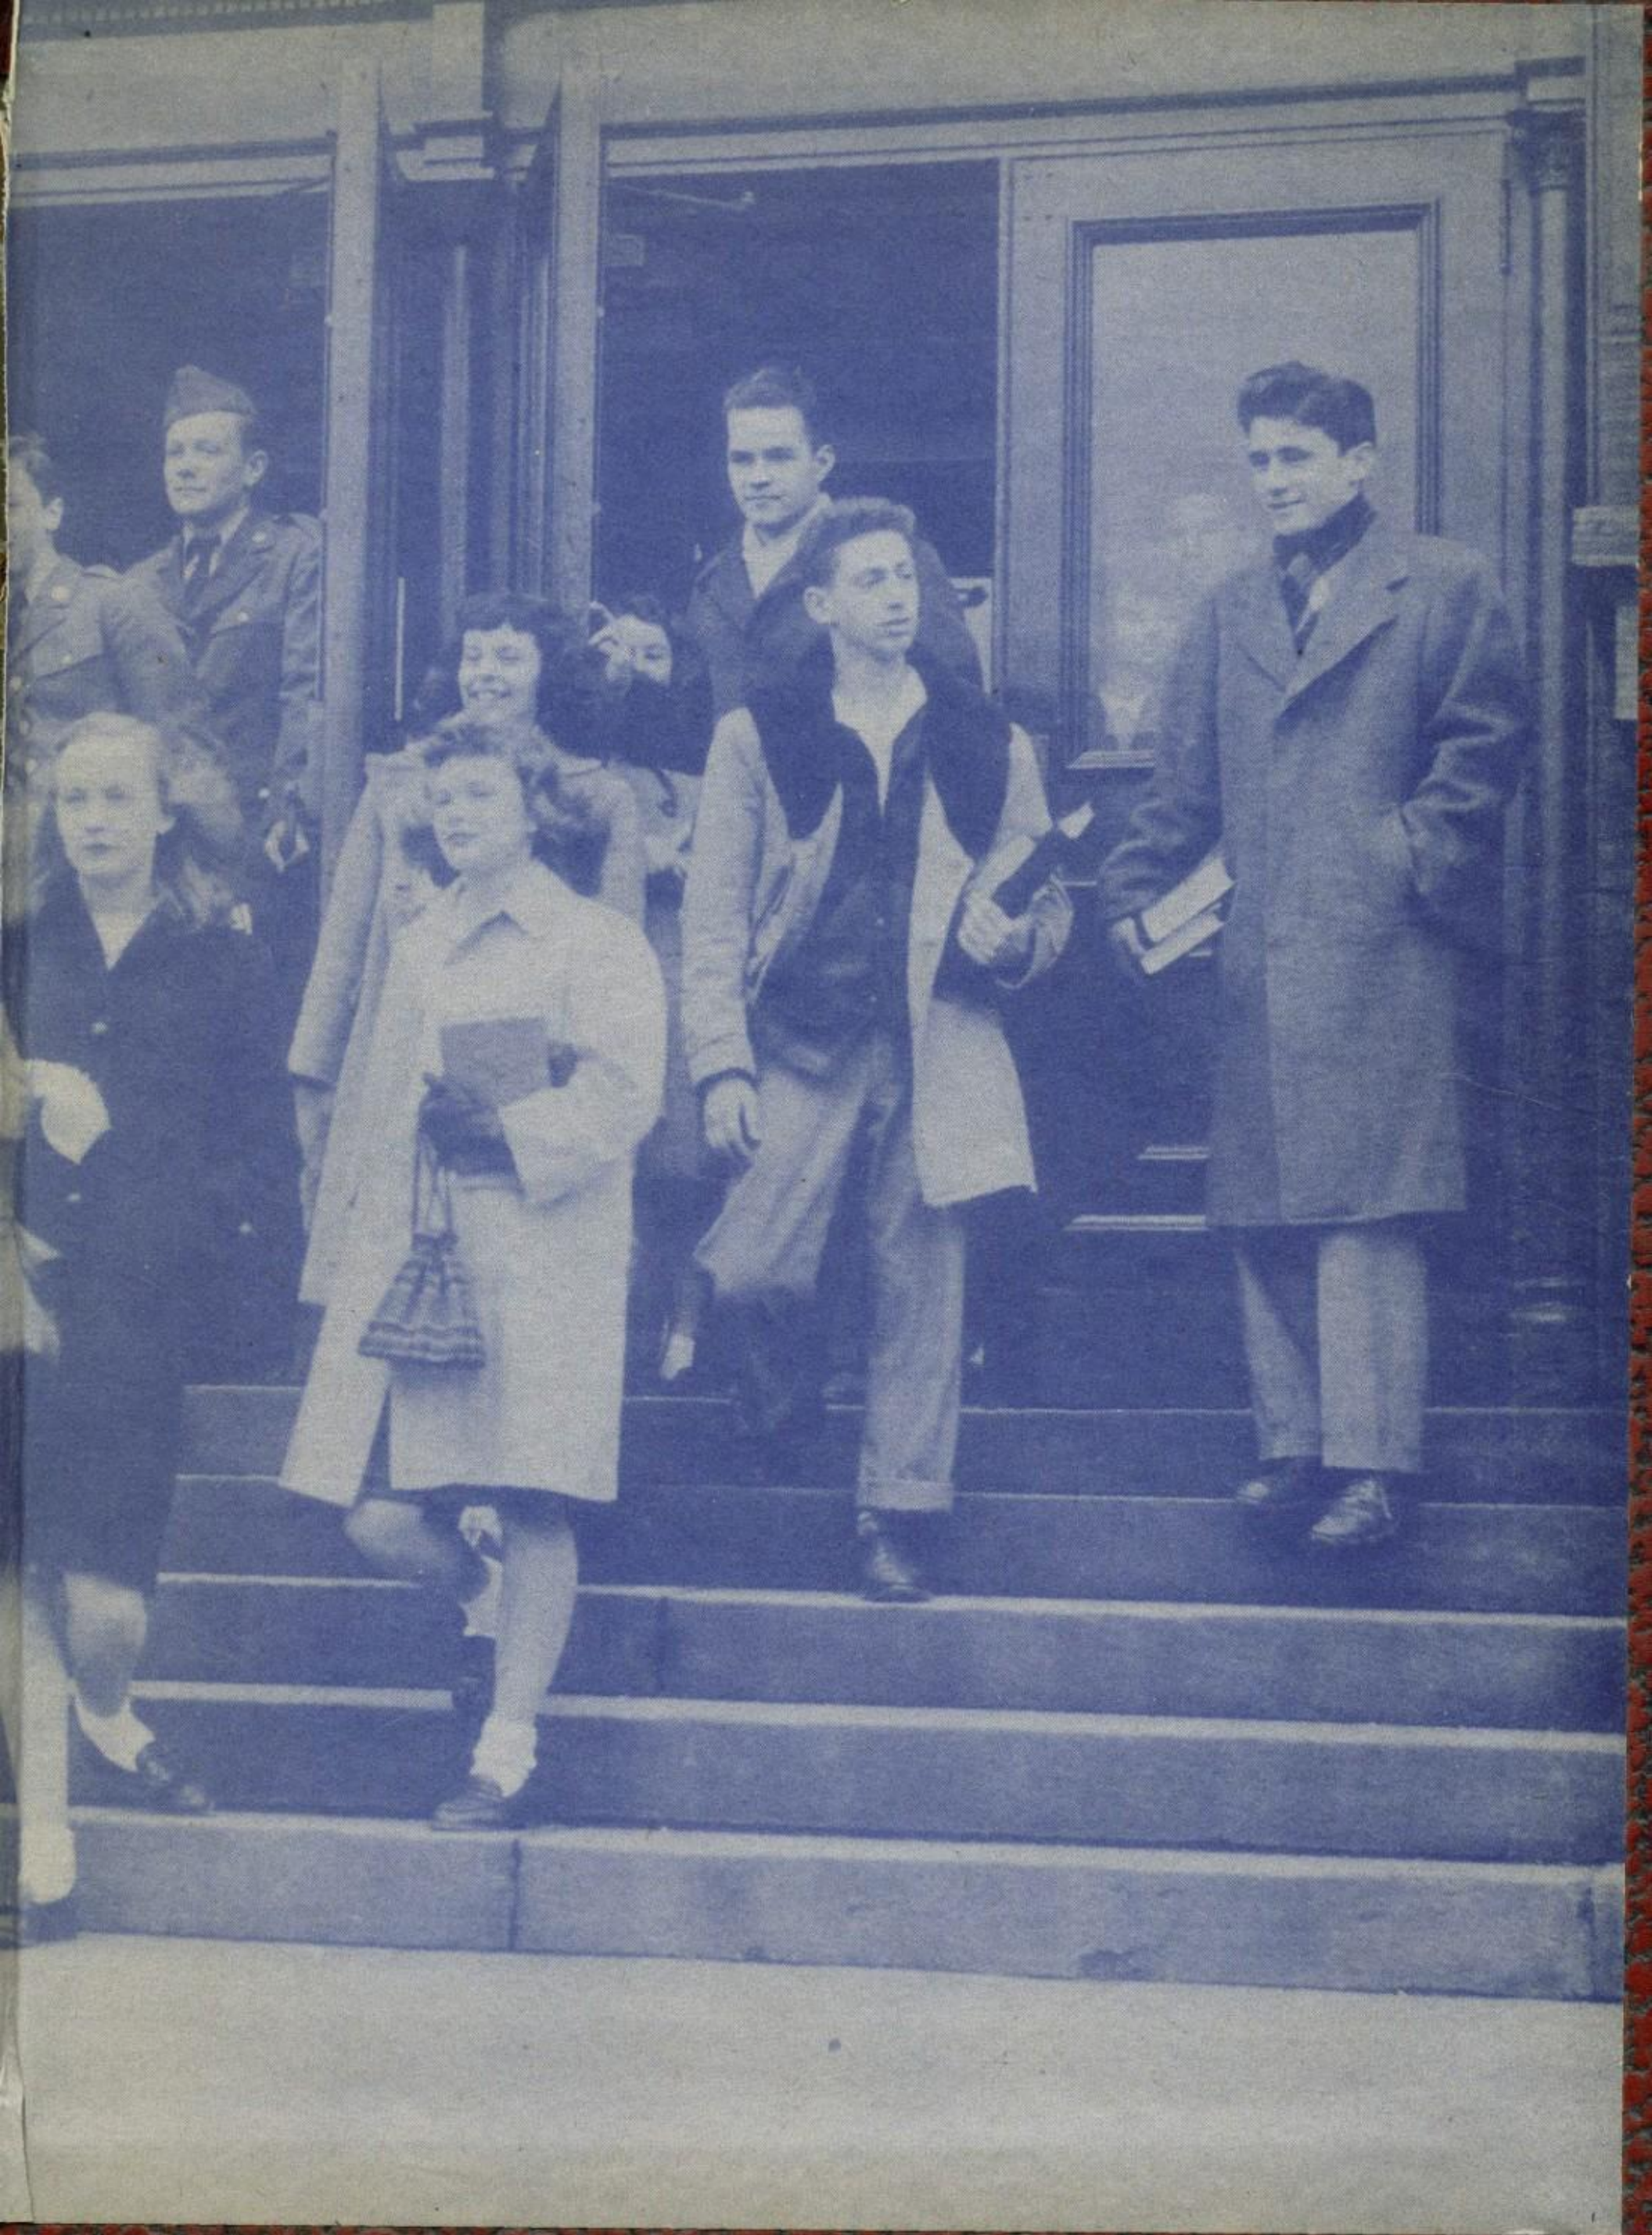
QUILL and SCROLL

With pencils behind their ears and the five W's and the H filling their brains, these Quill and Scroll members are ready to take their places in the newspaper world of tomorrow.

Quill and Scroll is an international honorary society for high school journalists. Its members are selected for outstanding work on the newspaper or the yearbook. They must also be juniors or seniors, ranking in the upper third of their class scholastically.

It's not easy to get in Quill and Scroll but the going is even "tougher" after the primary requirements are met. You see, then comes the informal initiation! Four pledges survived their raw egg and oyster diets to take part in the formal initiation at the annual banquet in December. They were Dick Balzer, Aldena Snyder, Bob Hedberg, and Roger Hedberg.

Dick Baird was borrowed from the "pub" department for the occasion to entertain the diners with a humorous reading entitled, "My Symptoms". Joe Boll was the "feature" speaker of the evening, giving the history of photography.


Leading the group for the fall semester were: president, Barbara Hinrichsen, vice-president, Shirley Elman; secretary, Virginia Day; and treasurer, Janice Parke. Those installed in the spring semester were: president, Virginia Day; vice-president, Joan Kell; secretary, Joan Taylor; and treasurer, Dick Balzer.
